VESPER IRIS (Dichotoma)

The beautiful filigree of graceful branches of the Vesper Iris is studded with from one to two hundred jewel-like flowers, truly a mammoth bouquet. The delicately colored blossoms, which at a little distance resemble somewhat a multitude of gorgeous butterflies at rest, with motionless, outstretched wings, vary in color, including such hues as cool translucent lavender, with markings of mahogany, copper, lemon, orange, brown and Tyrian. The Vesper Iris, which is exceedingly easy to grow, blooms for a month during July and August, when flowers are scarce. Resists both severe cold and intense heat with impunity. Be the first one in your locality to grow this unique Iris. 3 for 55c; 7 for $1.00.

We cannot praise this new Phlox too highly. It is radically different from any of the Phlox subulata type, and was classified "Nivalis" by Prof. Edgar T. Wherry, of the University of Pennsylvania. Very outstanding, color cyclamen-pink, and of redder shade than "Vivid." 3 for $1.50; $4.50 per doz.

Novelty Cushion' Mum New Dwarf Chrysanthemum

LITTLE BOB. We are sure you will like this new introduction, which is a charming, low-growing garden Chrysanthemum from England. Early in the fall the double, button-like flowers of mahogany-bronze appear, and cover the plants with hundreds of blooms, borne on short, stiff, wirelike stems. The plants spread to about 2 feet in diameter, are of perfectly symmetrical shape, and when in full bloom are completely covered with flowers. 65c each; 3 for $1.75.

CLARA CURTIS. Single, salmon-pink, daisy-like flowers, about 3 inches in diameter, well arranged on short, much-branched stems about 1 to 1½ feet high, at their best in August and early September, covering the plants by the hundreds, so that they look like small mounds of pink. The variety is perfectly hardy, and will do well in almost any soil or location. Since they flower early they are never subject to frost damage. They may be dug up in early winter and forced in pots, to bloom in February and March. 60c each; 3 for $1.50.

Cushion Chrysanthemums

A group of low growing 'Mums, forming mounds of blooms reminding one of the old-fashioned Azalea. They reach a height of 10 to 12 inches, and spread 2 feet or more. They begin blooming early, and are in full bloom in September, being literally covered with hundreds of flowers lasting over a long period. With a little protection the plants are quite hardy. They all originated from Chrysanthemum Amelia.

BRONZE CUSHION. The bronze form, with deep bronze flowers turning to bronzy, coppery yellow. 3 for $1.00; $3.00 per doz.

PINK CUSHION. Producing light pink flowers by the hundreds. 3 for $1.00; $3.00 per doz.

RED CUSHION. Outstanding new red form of the Cushion 'Mum. 50c each; $1.35 per 3; $5.00 per doz.

WHITE CUSHION. While opening as a delicate pink, the flowers turn pure white as they develop. 3 for $1.00; $3.00 per doz.

YELLOW CUSHION. The yellow form of the Cushion 'Mum. Pure golden yellow, hundreds of blooms, and long lasting. 3 for $1.00; $3.00 per doz.

CHRYSANTHEMUM MAXIMUM - ESTHER REED

An Introduction You Will Enjoy

An Ideal Plant — Grand for Cutting Always in Flower

Indeed, Esther Reed possesses more good points than any herbaceous plant in existence. Its pure white flowers are full double, very large, long lasting and of enormous substance. When the flower is just out, its center is compact and slightly green, but gradually the center broadens out and develops into pure white.

When the first flowers appear in June their diameter is as much as 4 inches, while later in the season the flowers become a little smaller. It is impossible to give an idea of the quantity of flowers one plant can produce, for every time the flowers are cut, fresh flower stems shoot up again.

The plants begin to bloom about the third week in June, and keep flowering until late in the season. Even in the beginning of November when Dahlias and other plants are cut down by frost, there are still some Esther Reeds in flower. Although these flowers are smaller and shorter than earlier in the season, they are still very useful.

The best time for planting is early in the spring. If planted in April they will produce an abundance of flowers the same season. Planting in August or early September will also give good results. Generally speaking they are easy growing plants, impartial as to soil, although best results are obtained on land that is well cultivated.

One can improve the size of the flowers and length of the stems considerably by disbudding some of the side shoots. It is, furthermore, advisable to lift and divide the plants every two years. The flowers that are bloomed out should always be cut. Double Shasta Daisy, Esther Reed, has been tried in many parts of the world, and has proved satisfactory everywhere. We have produced it on 18- to 24-inch stems.
